Teaching aids

For the purpose of developing various language skills, recordings of texts, short movies, and exercises have been prepared for classroom use.

In addition to teaching language skills, the Hebrew studies curriculum is designed to focus on subjects related to Israel and the physical and cultural aspects of the Israel experience: geography, environmental quality, history, culture and current affairs, in keeping with the calendar and events that occur. We believe that students who participate in this program come to Israel with the expectation of acquiring the language in its cultural, historical and contemporary context, as related dynamically, immediately and naturally to life in Israel. In addition to training students in academic skills, we also encourage experiential learning. The program includes trips to places of special interest, guided viewing of Israeli films and exposure to Hebrew literature – poetry and prose – and other Israeli arts – the plastic arts, theater, music and dance.

Course Requirements and Evaluation

Attendance: Given that this is an intensive Hebrew course, attendance – and arriving on time and prepared to class - is mandatory. Up to three days of justified absence from classes may be accepted (e.g.: emergency matter, doctor's note). Such cases of absence should be notified to your Hebrew teacher immediately. Students are required to arrive on time for classes. Teachers are entitled to treat any single case of lateness and/or repeated lateness as an unjustified absence. In addition, repeatedly arriving late to class will not be acceptable as this disrupts the intensive learning environment. Teachers have the right to dismiss students entirely from the class (without refund) if this (or any other) type of student misconduct or disruptive behavior occurs.

Homework: Home assignments are part of the course. Students who do not prepare their home assignments will be considered as not having met the requirements of the course.

Exams: The course will consist of in-class exam and a final. Exams cannot be given on dates other than they are scheduled for. If students cannot be present for an in-class exam, or are late to an exam, the non-participation in an exam will result in exam failure. Students who have two or more unjustified absences in a given week are not permitted to take the weekly exam; and in addition it is especially important that students do not miss the day prior to an exam as essential review material is covered. If students miss the day prior to an exam, they will not be permitted to take the exam.

Rules and Respectful Behavior

- No cell phones or laptops permitted in class
- Tardiness to class is not permitted
- Students may not change levels or classrooms during the semester without first consulting with the instructor, and following that with the Hebrew Department.
- As our Hebrew courses bring together students from many different styles of learning, experience with Hebrew, and from a wide variety of home institutions, we ask that students remain respectful to and patient with fellow classmates at all time as some students may be more familiar with certain course material versus others
- Students may be dismissed from the class without refund for cases of student misconduct, including but not limited to repeatedly arriving late to class

Learning Accommodations

In accordance to University guidelines, students with learning disabilities or accommodation requests must submit official documentation from their home country / university (translated into English by notary) to TAU International in advance of arrival describing in detail any specific needs they have. Students must also bring a copy of this documentation with them on-site and give it to their faculty on the first day of class while introducing themselves so that the faculty know who they are and what sorts of needs they may have. TAU International and its faculty cannot guarantee that all accommodations received at the home school can be similarly met at TAU but certainly does the best it can to make any suitable accommodations possible that are needed.
