 note for all Certified Certificates:

- According to the Ministry's regulations, we are required to physically see the certificates.
- Certificates that are not original from the date of the event (birth, marriage...) must be apostilled.
- If a certificate is not in English, it must be translated to English or Hebrew, and the translation also needs to be apostilled.
- Alternatively, if you have the apostilled certificate, you can have a notary within Israel translate it – in this case the translation does not need another apostille. The notary must see and base their translation on the original/ apostilled document.
